LAUNCH OF CONIASOFT SOFTWARE PRODUCTS AND ATAFOM UNIVERSITY'S INNOVATION EDUCATIONAL SOFTWARE CONIASOFT ONLINE CAMPUS IN ERZURUM ON OCT. 14, 2023.

One of the oldest cities in Anatolia, Erzurum, is also the highest city in Türkiye and the epicentre of the Eastern Anatolian Region's natural and cultural wealth. Its architectural design, which includes a fortress and defences, is reminiscent of fifth-century Byzantine control. The "Manzikert" victory in 1071 marked the beginning of Turkish dominance, and it was crucial to the resistance effort against the occupying forces during the First World War. Winter sports and a harsh climate are Erzurum's main draws. From July 23 to August 7, 1919, the city held the Erzurum Congress. The congress played a significant role in shaping a national identity under the leadership of Mustafa Kemal Atatürk of modern Türkiye. Palandöken Mountain, which has hosted the European Youth Olympics Winter Festival and the Universiade Winter Games, provides skiing for six months of the year. Erzurum has a significant train station as well.

In software technology, CONIASOFT, a Perfect Timing Holding company, has a bright future. On October 14, 2023 at the Erzurum Palan Ski/Conversion Resort Hotel, the company showcased its products and highlighted the advantages of the city's climate. The company unveiled its cutting-edge AI-based products, including ConiaSoft Accounting, ConiaSoft Online Campus, ConiaSoft SQLBackup, and ConiaSoft Cloud. Dr. Şakir Yavuz and his team showed that they are prepared to offer cutting-edge, futuristic solutions that would improve people's lives in a variety of settings, such as workplaces and colleges. Dr. Şakir Yavuz also shared optimism for Erzurum's future, saying that if all the requirements are satisfied in terms of infrastructure, as a precursor, the historic city will experience new and delightful times.

Thanks to Türkiye's perfect climate for software companies, Dr. Şakir Yavuz, the chairman of Perfect Timing Holding, has announced intentions to open a big data storage centre in Erzurum. ConiaSoft General Coordinator of Eastern Anatolia, İlker Özkara, assisted with the introduction of the CONIASOFT software programme at the Palan Hotel. Perfect Timing Holding is based in Erzurum and manages 54 fields in 22 nations. The company anticipates growth via investments in technology.

This event also registered the launch of our pioneering software, ConiaSoft Online Campus, tailored exclusively for universities, colleges, and schools. It's a combination of a university management system and a Learning management system, with a successful run in ATAFOM University International. With this innovative solution, we're reshaping the way education is delivered, fostering a dynamic virtual learning environment where students can access courses, engage with peers, and interact with educators seamlessly.

ELEVATE YOUR WELL-BEING WITH THESE SIMPLE PRACTICES

- Mindful Hydration: Start your day with a glass of water. Add slices of lemon, cucumber, or mint for refreshing taste and added nutrients.
- Tech-Free Sleep: Create a technology-free zone in your bedroom. The blue light emitted by screens can disrupt your sleep cycle. Instead, read a book before sleep for better rest.
- Power of Breathing: Practice deep breathing exercises. It reduces stress, increases oxygen flow, and boosts your overall energy.
- 10-Minute Workouts: Short, intense workouts can be as effective as longer ones.
- Herbal Teas: Explore the world of herbal teas. Chamomile for relaxation, Peppermint for digestion, and Green Tea for antioxidants. They're not only healthy but also delicious.
- Meal Prepping: Spend some time on the weekend planning and preparing your meals for the week. This reduces the temptation of unhealthy fast food and ensures you eat nutritious meals.
- Digital Detox: Allocate specific times of the day to check your emails and social media. Constant notifications can increase stress. Disconnecting, even for a short while, can be remarkably refreshing.
- Gratitude Journal: Maintain a gratitude journal. Write down three things you're thankful for every day. This simple practice can shift your focus to positive aspects of your life, reducing stress.
- Stretch Breaks: Incorporate stretching into your daily routine. Stretching improves flexibility, posture, and can alleviate muscle tension. Take short stretch breaks, especially if you have a desk job.
- Laugh Often: Laughter is a natural stress buster. Watch a funny movie, spend time with people who make you laugh, or engage in activities that bring you joy.

Remember, these hacks are most effective when practiced consistently. Small, positive changes can lead to significant improvements in your overall health and well-being.

WHY IS YOUR LIFE DEPENDENT ON YOUR SENSE OF SELF-ESTEEM?

By Comfort Bulus

Self-esteem is a brilliant thread that runs through the fabric of personal development and well-being in the tapestry of human existence. Self-esteem lights our journey like nourishing sunshine, banishing uncertainties and encouraging a feeling of direction.

Self-esteem is important because it affects how people perceive their value and worth and the emotions from their sense of superiority or unworthiness. People are more or less likely to take care of themselves and realise their full potential as a motivating factor. People with high self-worth are driven to look after themselves and work hard to achieve their dreams. On the other hand, people with poor self-esteem might not think they are deserving of or capable of reaching happy outcomes, which results in less perseverance and resilience in the face of adversity.

Since self-esteem is such an ill-defined notion, it can be challenging for individuals without it to imagine what it could feel like. Considering how they think about things they value might help people with low self-esteem understand what it would be like to have higher self-esteem. For instance, some individuals love their vehicles and take good care of them, choosing wisely when to park, service, and drive. The difference between the two is that self-esteem is about the person who is loved, cared for and felt proud of. People who feel significant and valued take good care of themselves and take wise actions that uphold rather than diminish their value.

Self-esteem is a spectrum that ranges in intensity from low to high, depending on the person. Some people are more confident in themselves than other people. Although these people have subtle differences, it is possible to compare how each feels and thinks about their worth. Self-esteem can also be influenced by reasonableness or proportionality; some people with high self-esteem have attained it through actual success. They say that their high self-esteem comes from their capacity to overcome obstacles in the past, showing that their self-esteem is inversely correlated with their natural life adversities.

On the other hand, some people have a strong sense of self-worth that seems disproportionate to their actions and accomplishments. Self-esteem based on entitlement rather than actual accomplishments is considered less psychologically healthy than self-esteem more proportionate. This self-esteem is frequently called "overly inflated" and is associated with adult narcissism (superiority complexes, arrogance, entitlement, and self-centeredness).

Self-esteem can be excessively high, excessively low, or both. Due to conditions like melancholy, anxiety, compulsive perfectionism, cognitive dissonance, abuse or exploitation, some people who have faced difficulties may not see their successes and acts as worthwhile. When individuals fall short of their internal standards, they could exhibit low self-esteem and emotional pain. It is challenging to comprehend why they feel so horrible about themselves when an outsider would consider them deserving based on their accomplishments and actions.

Self-esteem is more nuanced than can be captured by a straightforward high vs. low dimension.

In comparison to achievements and acts, it differs in size and appropriateness. Parents who want to help their children develop positive self-esteem must nourish and strengthen both aspects. Understanding the benefits of having a healthy sense of self that is both overinflated and proportionate to behaviour and success is crucial.

By breaking down nine compelling reasons why self-esteem is a crucial cornerstone of a happy and powerful existence, ATAFOM University International will explain the fundamental relevance of self-esteem in this blog article.

1. A positive self-image is the first step towards accepting your individuality and intrinsic worth. Self-esteem is the fertile ground from which a positive self-image grows.

2. Resilience in Difficulties: A sound sense of self-worth strengthens your inner fortitude, enabling you to weather life's storms with grit and recover from failures.

3. Ambition and Achievement: Building your self-esteem feeds your ambitions, helps you reach your objectives, and promotes a success-oriented mindset.

4. Healthy Relationships: Self-esteem is the cornerstone of deep bonds, enabling you to develop sincere, considerate bonds while establishing boundaries.

5. Mental and Emotional Well-Being: Fostering self-esteem protects your mental and emotional well-being by insulating you from the damaging effects of worry and sadness.

6. Effective Coping Mechanism: Having a solid sense of self-worth gives you the tools to deal with stress and difficulties healthily.

7. Decision-Making Competence: Having self-worth allows you to make wise choices, which promotes a sense of agency and control over your life.

8. Pursuit of Personal progress: Using your self-worth as a guide, you embark on self-discovery and ongoing improvement, broadening your perspectives and skills.

9. Empowerment and Empathy: A strong sense of self-worth helps people feel empowered and empathic towards others, which promotes peaceful cooperation in society.

Self-esteem resonates as a beautiful note that harmonises the chords of assurance, resiliency, and purpose in the symphony of life. Embrace your sense of worth and watch as it leads you towards a life filled with limitless opportunities and unwavering optimism. At ATAFOM University, we mentor through our teaching to transform your life and increase your sense of self-worth. Join us today.
