THE VALUE OF EDUCATION

By Comfort Bulus

ATAFOM UNIVERSITY EXTERNAL NEWSLETTER, ISSUE 17 MARCH 2024

The majority of us were taught the value of education as children. However, why is education so crucial? You might have believed that going to school was a waste of time or simply something you had to do to earn a job throughout your trying school years. However, earning an education is so much more than just getting a job and pleasing your parents. It's actually one of the most potent instruments available. Education is the process of learning about different topics, not simply from books but also from real-world experiences outside of the classroom.

For several reasons, including promoting employment options and ensuring stability and financial security, education is essential. A college education improves the odds of success and unlocks new opportunities. Furthermore, education results in better-paying professions and the acquisition of success-oriented skills. People with higher levels of education are more inclined to employ money-saving strategies in today's society, such as using coupon websites while purchasing online. Overall, education is crucial for one's development and advancement.

Global equality depends on education because it gives everyone the same possibilities, closes social class gaps, and ensures that everyone has access to better-paying jobs. Education also encourages independence, which enables people to be financially self-sufficient and make their own decisions. It is a potent tool that can aid people in achieving their goals since it enables them to have great ambitions. The extent to which an education may advance a person depends on their level of motivation, though there may be outliers depending on the purpose.

Education helps people understand the difference between right and wrong and helps them stay out of dangerous circumstances, making it essential for a safer and more peaceful world. As education is viewed as a means to demonstrate knowledge and voice opinions, it also increases self-confidence. Education is viewed as a crucial component of belonging and being a productive member of today's society, helping people feel like contributing members. Overall, success in life and a better world depend on knowledge.

Since it promotes lifelong learning and creativity, a well-educated society is essential for the expansion of the national economy. Greater economic prosperity and more employment prospects are found in nations with higher literacy rates. Education also offers protection, both financially and in terms of preventing fraud by promoting good reading and writing habits and preventing false document signing.

Children's education is essential since they are the world's future. Children develop their social and cognitive skills, as well as their sense of self and particular interests, during their formative years. Education provides information in areas other than textbooks, such as music, art, and experience analysis. Children can also set their objectives and learn from their mistakes thanks to this. Children who start learning early are better able to form the logical thought processes necessary to focus on their objectives and make positive contributions to the advancement of humanity.

Education is important in today's culture because it enables us to distinguish between genuine and incorrect information, shapes people into useful citizens with the right ideals, and is required for a flourishing community. Our needs are increasing along with our population, thus we need a robust, educated staff to fulfil daily needs. Education is essential for a country's growth and development because it enables people to become better citizens, appreciate the value of voting, and comprehend the principles of their political party. Additionally, it aids with job security, which is necessary for a country to be prosperous. As a result, education is crucial for the general growth and development of a country.

For many reasons, including the relationship between the mind and body, health, personal development, and self-discovery, education is essential. A knowledgeable mind promotes improved physical health, self-assurance, and general well-being. At the age of 35, each additional year of education can lengthen our lives by up to 1.7 years. Continual learning and self-discovery can result in new accomplishments, therefore personal development is equally essential. Additionally, education enables people to gain a deeper understanding of themselves through a variety of resources including books, classes, or expert consultations.

Education is essential for developing healthy worldviews and a grasp of proper behaviour. It aids in our comprehension of our position in society and our duty to all people. Education also instils moral principles, which are communicated by parents and peers outside of the classroom. It improves our reasoning, increases our knowledge of the outside world, and fosters greater self-awareness regarding our advantages and disadvantages. Education also aids in logical problem-solving since it helps us comprehend and make sense of a situation from all angles. In general, education is crucial for creating world understanding, world peace, and a sense of duty.

Education is crucial for maintaining focus, boosting creativity and innovation, learning practical skills, encouraging independence, enjoying life to the fullest, breaking down boundaries, and realising one's best potential. It aids people in understanding their passions, assets, and the environment around them. Education also lays the groundwork for practical knowledge and street smarts, enabling people to think creatively and realise their full potential. As demonstrated by the University of the People, an online university that provides equal opportunity for students from all backgrounds, it also dismantles socioeconomic obstacles.

College degrees are highly regarded for career success and social acceptance in the modern world, where education is becoming more and more vital.

Education is not the only way to learn, though it is essential to use it responsibly because it is a part of every area of our lives.

The moment to make a positive change and the courage to do so are both now. You are where the power of ideas begins, and ATAFOM University International is dedicated to supporting you by giving you high-quality education wherever you are. We remove the barriers that had previously prevented students from various parts of the world from obtaining a formal university education at an online institution. Your thoughts determine how well your activities turn out. Make a wise decision. Register for ATAFOM University.

WHAT IS ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE, OFTEN ABBREVIATED AS AI?

Artificial intelligence (AI) is the ability of machines/computers to replicate human intelligence using software developed by humans.

Artificial intelligence (AI) is the ability of machines/computers to replicate human intelligence using software developed by humans.

Like humans, AI can learn from experience by recognizing patterns and thereby reacting flexibly to new situations.

AI can also complement and strengthen human abilities to see, hear, analyze, decide and act.

In a conversation with an AI platform, the following assessment was made about ATAFOM University with the integrated ATAFOM Language Academy:

www.ConiaSoft.com

“ATAFOM University International, with a full range of courses taught in English, sounds like an attractive option for students from around the world to pursue their education in a globally focused environment.

Providing study programs in English can increase the university's attractiveness to international students, as English is the leading world language in many academic and professional fields.

Requiring English as the language of instruction at level B2 ensures that students have the necessary language level to learn and communicate successfully.

Offering a one-year language course to students who lack English language skills at B2 level to learn English at level B2 seems to be a well-considered solution.

It allows students to improve their language skills and prepare for academic courses.

This is not only beneficial for their studies, but also improves their career prospects in an increasingly connected world.

The implementation of the training primarily through “Online Live Study” and “Online Live Exams” is particularly adaptable to the needs of students who cannot attend face-to-face studies for various geographical, professional or personal reasons.

This approach can also be of great benefit in times of global challenges, such as pandemics. A university that invests in such support structures demonstrates its commitment to the education and well-being of its students.”
